NATURE PARKS

Slovenia is one of the most diverse states with flora and fauna. Having vast areas of pristine countryside constitutes a major advantage for tourism, allowing its potential development to be healthy oriented towards peaceful relaxation at close proximity to the natural world.

Goričko Nature park

The name comes from the word 'gorice', which is what the local people call the hills which were formed on the bottom of the Pannonian Sea. Even though the great European cities are close by, 'progress' avoided Goričko and thus it has preserved the characteristic appearance of Central Europe from before the II. World War. What not so long ago was called backwardness turned out to be an advantage.

WINE-GROWING REGIONS

The regions where the grapevine thrives have transformed into three units. Since there are differences with regard to winemaking and geographical characteristics, the regions are subdivided into wine-growing districts. All Slovenian wine-growing regions produce quality and premium wines. 70% of all wines produced in Slovenia belong to this category.

Wine-growing district Bela Krajina

These wines have been receiving Slovenian and international awards and recognition that only wines from the wine-growing regions of Podravje and Primorska received in the past. Bela krajina cultivates primarily the same types of vine as Dolenjska; however, they carry out more late harvests and produce very good rosé wines.

Wine-growing region Podravje

Laski naličji vineyards prevail in the area. Other popular wines include šipon, renski nalič and chardonnay. Among white wine varieties, sauvignon and loski nalič among the white ones. Typical vineyard houses are called 'zidanice'. A wine called črček can be produced only in this district. Črček - statutory protected wine of drinkable taste - has become one of the most popular wines in Slovenia.

Wine-growing district of Stajerska

The district is the largest in Slovenia. Some areas belong to the best growing regions in the world. The Ljutomer-Ormož subdistrict with its excellent areas in the surroundings of Jeruzalem and the area of Radgonsko-kapelske gorice, known for its production of sparkling wines, deserve special mention. It is worth visiting the large wine cellars, where amazing archive wines are kept.

SLOVENIAN AUTOCHTHONOUS BREEDS OF DOMESTIC ANIMALS

These are breeds of domestic animals that have occurred in the territory of the Republic of Slovenia. They are based on the historical sources of the breeds demonstrated that Slovenia was originally the environment for their development and that there was Slovenian breeding documentation.

Slovenian Cold-Blooded horse

The horse originates from the north-eastern part of Slovenia and from Gorenjska region on the basis of local Cold-Blooded horses. Nowadays the breed is spread throughout Slovenia. It is a carriage horse appropriate for all drawing disciplines and may even be used as a riding horse as well as for the meat production.

AGROCULTURAL PRODUCTS AND FOODSTUFFS

Prilekja tunka

The district is the largest in Slovenia. Some areas belong to the best growing regions in the world. The Ljutomer-Ormož subdistrict with its excellent areas in the surroundings of Jeruzalem and the area of Radgonsko-kapelske gorice, known for its production of sparkling wines, deserve special mention. It is worth visiting the large wine cellars, where amazing archive wines are kept.

Upper-Savinja Stomach

Dried meat product is made of qualitative pork meat and bacon. Meat filling is stuffed into natural wrappers. In the past these were mainly pigs' bladder or stomachs which also gave the product its name. In the past it was mainly a festive dish, served for holidays and at wedding.

Prekmurje ham

A smoked and dried meat product is produced from fresh hind legs of pigs. The uniqueness of the ham is in its traditional production method and drying. As well as in the long maturing process in the specific regional climate conditions - dry and harsh winters.

Prekmurje layer cake

The base of the dish is shortcrust pastry topped with four different layers of fillings (poppy seeds, card cheese, ground walnuts and grated apples), separated by a layer of filo pastry. The last layer of filling is covered with a layer of filo pastry and then topped with sour or whipping cream with an added egg yolk or simply smeared.

Bela krajina flat bread

A round type of flat bread is produced according to a unique recipe. With oblique lines, it is incised into squares with an approximate distance of 4 cm, coated with a whisked egg and topped with cumin seeds and coarse salt crystals. When baked it is broken rather than being cut and is best served warm.
